What is Exploding Goldfish Films?

A fair question, and one which has puzzled historians for centuries. Some say that Exploding Goldfish Films is a cult, invented for use as a tax shelter by the super-rich. Others say it is just an old wives' tale made up to scare children.

We say that Exploding Goldfish Films is a film production group in northern Colorado, founded by Andrew Gingerich in 2003 and credited with the award-winning short films Hear, Speak, and See (Honoree, Silver Spoon Film Festival 2005) and Selfless Self-Indulgence (Honoree, Boulder Shoot-Out 2006), as well as the feature film Wholesale Souls, Inc. and the upcoming theatrical short Terminal Philosophy: The Somber Tale of Leonard Noblac.

This DVD is a gift to you, to show you what Exploding Goldfish Films is all about. It includes several short films, as well as excerpts and promotional materials from Terminal Philosophy.
